FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Celebrate America Recycles Day At Iowa State

Ames, Iowa – America Recycles Day, a Keep America Beautiful national initiative, is the only nationally-recognized day dedicated to promoting and celebrating recycling in the United States. Each year, thousands of communities across the country participate by promoting environmental citizenship and taking action to increase and improve recycling in America. America Recycles Day is a nationally recognized day dedicated to promoting and celebrating recycling in the United States. This year's event takes place on Thursday, November 15th, when various Iowa State organizations will also talk about recycling efforts on campus.

Facilities Planning and Management's Recycling Coordinator, Ayodeji Oluwalana, the Student Government Sustainability Committee, and other green organizations on campus are using this day to bring awareness to recycling at Iowa State. A tabling event will be held at the Iowa State Memorial Union, west staircase area, between 10 am and 2 pm to specifically educate and engage the campus community on the importance of recycling, what recycling means on campus, and what materials go into recycling bins at Iowa State.

"Not only will we provide details of Iowa State's recycling program," said Oluwalana, "but it's also an opportunity to learn how you can support recycling initiatives on campus."

All of these initiatives are to lead to the ultimate goal, and that is zero waste. Stop by to learn more about recycling, play a game and even win prizes and celebrate America Recycles Day.
